Description:

Review "Oh. My. Gosh. I so loved Tempted in the Tropics. There are some absolutely laugh-out-loud funny scenes in this book as well as some very sweet and tender "aw" moments. Entertaining from start to finish with the perfect blend of romance, laughter, and passion." ~Amy Remus, So Many Reads

"I devoured this in one go, swooning and sighing over one very delectable and dishy doctor. With loveable characters, a captivating storyline, and set in a descriptively beautiful setting, I was smitten and loved every page." ~Nicola Armstrong, Goodreads

"This is a terrific book! The storyline is fresh, modern and engaging. A fast-paced read with sexy seduction scenes that sizzle with heat." ~LJT, Goodreads

About the Author Award-winning author Tracy March writes romantic thrillers influenced by her career in the pharmaceutical field, and her interest in science and politics. She also writes lighthearted romances inspired by her real-life happily ever after.

Always up for travel and adventure, Tracy has flown in a stunt plane, snowmobiled on the Continental Divide, ziplined in the Swiss Alps, and been chased by a bull in the mountains of St. Lucia. She loves Nationals baseball, Saturday date nights, and Dairy Queen Blizzards--and rarely goes a day without Diet Coke and Cheez-Its.

Tracy lives in Yorktown, Virginia, with her superhero husband who works for NASA. They recently spent two years living in Washington D.C., and enjoy visiting often--especially when the Nats are in town.
